MEDIA 2007-2013

Training and Networks 2014

Investing in talented European professionals is essential for the competitiveness of the European audiovisual industry. Thus, capacity-building through continuous training, peer cooperation and networking activities was a core objective of the MEDIA Programme 2007-2013 as it has been of EU programmes for the audiovisual sector for more than two decades, consolidating this co-funding over time as a recognised quality label that continues under Creative Europe MEDIA 2014-2020.

We are very proud that the MEDIA Programme 2007-2013 has supported the 65 courses listed in this publication, through which 2,000 professionals will benefit from the teaching expertise, knowledge, experience and the Europe-wide, and indeed international, networking opportunities offered by 1,200 course experts, fellow professionals and decision makers.

While the training courses differ in format, length and target group, they all have common goals: to invest in individual capacities, to boost the quality and impact of European audiovisual projects and to enhance the sector's ability to compete on international markets, and thus contribute to growth and jobs.

All the courses share common features: they have a strong commitment to European or international cooperation; they are hands-on and they are highly relevant to current and future industry needs. They also open doors to working and networking with high-level professionals; they are creating Europe-wide networks and pools of expertise and excellence for the European audiovisual industry.

We hope you will find Training and Networks 2014 a useful tool in deciding which course is right for you.

Useful tips

- Check deadlines and dates – they are subject to change.
- Unless otherwise indicated, proficiency in English is a prerequisite of all courses. Check with the course on the exact level of fluency required.
- Training fees not only vary from one training course to another, but do not always cover the same elements. Exact terms and conditions vary, but an indication of when travel, lodging and meals are provided is shown by the following symbols: ➔ H I O I
- Bursaries can often be provided by the training organisations or by local/regional/national authorities. Some courses can provide grants. The number and extent vary, but we provide an indication that some form of financial assistance is available with the following symbol €.
- Check eligibility rules with the training organisation. The general rule is that participants must come from one of the 33 countries participating in the MEDIA programme 2007-2013, i.e. the 28 EU Member States, and Bosnia and Herzegovina, Iceland, Liechtenstein, Norway and Switzerland.

- The course is open to participants from anywhere in the world – though not necessarily on the same conditions – where you see an 🌐

How Creative Europe MEDIA 2014-2020 supports the audiovisual sector

Creative Europe MEDIA supports Europe's film and audiovisual industries financially in the development, distribution and promotion of their work. It helps launch projects with a European dimension and nurtures new technologies, including video games; it enables European films and audiovisual works to be seen and find markets beyond national and European borders; it funds training, and market access worldwide; it also supports international co-productions, and audience development and film literacy projects. Creative Europe MEDIA is a sub-programme of the EU's new Creative Europe Programme, which runs from 2014-2020.

Here we provide a brief introduction to the different types of funding, most of which have the same characteristics as the schemes operated under the MEDIA Programme from 2007-2013.

Applicants for funding should be from a Creative Europe MEDIA participating country. More detail on eligibility rules as well as calls for proposals can be found at ec.europa.eu/media.

DEVELOPMENT

Single projects, slates and video games

Independent European companies with a proven track record can receive support towards the cost of developing fiction films, animation projects and creative documentaries intended for cinema release, TV or digital platforms. This support is available either for single projects or for a slate of 3-5 projects. Support is also available for development of video games regardless of the platform for which they are designed or of how it is expected that they will be distributed – provided they are intended for commercial exploitation.

INTERNATIONAL CO-PRODUCTION

Co-production funds

Co-production funds are eligible for support if their main activity is support to international co-production of feature films, animations and documentaries intended primarily for cinema release. A financial contribution to these funds is available for international co-productions between European and non-European producers for films intended primarily for cinema release/and or the implementation of distribution strategies to improve circulation of these works in at least three territories.

TV PROGRAMMING

Support is available for independent European companies to produce television works (fiction, animation or creative documentaries) involving the participation of at least three broadcasting companies from different Creative Europe MEDIA countries.

DISTRIBUTION

Distributors and sales agents

Distributors can obtain funding under an automatic or selective scheme, while there is only an automatic scheme for sales agents. The funding provided under the automatic scheme is based on how many paying admission tickets have been sold. It must be reinvested in co-production, acquisition of distribution rights or editing, promotion and publicity costs. The automatic scheme for sales agents is similar: the support provided is based on sales and results, and it must be reinvested, in this case either in international sales rights or in promotion, marketing and advertising of non-national European films. Activities eligible for support under the selective scheme are campaigns by groupings of at least seven distributors coordinated by the sales agent.

MARKET ACCESS

Partnership agreements and umbrella stands

Support for market access takes the form of two-year partnership agreements starting with the activities taking place in 2015. The support is available to European entities (e.g. private companies, non-profit organisations, associations, charities, foundations, municipalities or local authorities) for activities providing access to physical markets for European professionals, online tools for professionals and common European promotional activities.

Creative Europe MEDIA also provides an umbrella stand for European professionals at the European Film Market (Berlin), MIPTV, MIPCOM and the Marché du Film at the Festival de Cannes. More information about this activity can be found at www.media-stands.eu.

TRAINING

European entities, (e.g. private companies, non-profit organisations, associations, charities, foundations, municipalities or local authorities), can apply for a two-year partnership agreement to organise training programmes which aim to develop the capacity of audiovisual professionals to understand and integrate a European and international dimension in their work. The training programmes should improve expertise in one of a range of areas: audience development, marketing, distribution and exploitation; financial and commercial management (with a view in particular to stimulating access to finance); development and production of audiovisual works; or the opportunities and challenges of the digital shift.

REACHING THE AUDIENCE

Festivals, cinema networks and audience development

There are three ways in which Creative Europe MEDIA helps films reach their audience – support to festivals, to cinema networks and to audience development projects. Festivals in a country participating in Creative Europe MEDIA can receive financial support if the majority of their programming is from Creative Europe MEDIA countries, comes from at least 15 of those countries and particular importance is attached to audience outreach and film literacy. European cinema networks are eligible for support if they represent at least 100 independent cinemas primarily showing European films in first run situated in at least 20 Creative Europe MEDIA countries. An audience development project can be a European film literacy initiative (involving at least three different territories and in at least three different languages) or an audience development event designed to create a word-of-mouth ‘buzz’ for important and successful non-national European films.

IN THE PIPELINE...

A Financial Guarantee Facility to be operational from 2016 will make it easier for small operators to access bank loans. It will be managed by the European Investment Fund, an arm of the European Investment Bank.

AdaptLab

TorinoFilmLab

(Museo Nazionale del Cinema – Fondazione Maria Adriana Prolo)

AdaptLab is an advanced long-term training course for 12 professional European writers and/or writer/directors wishing to work in the field of adaptation.

In three six-day residential workshops and two online sessions, AdaptLab follows the entire adaptation process analysing the book's potential, exploring the different possibilities of its story world and following the development of extended treatments and/or scripts with the possibility of presenting the work to a group of 120 international producers (of whom at least 15 are focused on adaptation), sales agents and other industry professionals during the TorinoFilmLab Meeting Event in November. Cross-media experts guide participants in exploring the possibility of expanding the story world through other media. Each workshop is organised into three groups of four adaptations/participants. Two work on eight previously selected novels (including four noir/thrillers). The third works on participants' own projects.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Practical skills, a deeper understanding of the links between the publishing and film industries, enhanced pitching skills, awareness of new cross-media and digital opportunities.

Audience Design

TorinoFilmLab

(Museo Nazionale del Cinema – Fondazione Maria Adriana Prolo)

“Audience Design provides hands-on experience in working on audience awareness and engagement strategies for independent and art-house film projects in development.

The Audience Design programme runs in parallel with the TorinoFilmLab project development workshops. Participants work as a team under the guidance of a professional mentor, who follows them through the development, planning and presentation process. Participants analyse and work with feature film projects, developing overall strategies and selecting up to four different cases that represent various approaches. Through these concrete examples the concepts of audience design are tested, discussed and defined. Thanks to group brainstorming and exchange of ideas, the Audience Designers acquire familiarity with the process of generating creative, project-specific strategies to reach and captivate the audience of a given audiovisual work.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Enhanced ability to relate within the industry; better knowledge of and stronger ties with the market; ongoing support; collaboration between writers, story editors and audience designers.

International Screenwriters Workshop & Master Class

eQuinoxe Europe – Verein zur Förderung der Filmkunst

The International Screenwriters Workshop & Master Class is a short-term, seven-day, residential training programme with the aim of helping filmmakers to develop the best possible script.

The course's three components are: a workshop consisting of one-on-one meetings between trainers and nine participating writers and their producers/co-writers; Master Classes giving participants a 're-entry' phase from a small to a larger group and a strong foundation for all their work; a phone/Skype conference three to six months later. The aims are to create artistic and economic effects for the European industry, achieve the best possible result from strong stories with an inherent cultural and linguistic identity, thereby retaining and encouraging cultural diversity, create an international/intercultural dialogue allowing talented filmmakers to learn from the best in the business, access and become part of éQuinoxe Germany's international network, establish stronger relationships between Europe's filmmakers and other territories.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

A unified writer/producer vision to expedite the development process; an improved competitive edge for a film to be released in- and outside the EU.

MFI Script 2 Film Workshops 2014

Mesogeiako Institutouto Kinimatografou |
Mediterranean Film Institute

MFI Script 2 Film workshops offers an advanced script and project development platform for writer/producer teams working on a feature film project.

The course is based on working in small groups of five-to-six, Q&A sessions, case studies, screenings and individual consultation with an international group of accomplished screenwriting teachers, producers and industry representatives. It consists of two residential workshops and two online sessions. Participants also have the opportunity to take part in market events, festivals and other networking activities. The primary objective is to develop fully the participating screenplays, from first or subsequent draft to final draft. Workshops that focus on script analysis, revision and rewriting enhance the dramatic value of the story material, at the same time helping participants to produce solid screenplays with a strong impact on international audiences. The second objective is to discuss pitching, fundraising and production strategies, and assist filmmakers in planning an effective process for the realisation of their film projects.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Advanced script development; elaboration of dramatic and cinematic values; pitching techniques; strategies for project development.

PRIME 4Kids&Family

Primehouse

PRIME 4Kids&Family provides professional and project development for writers and creative teams resulting in new audiovisual works for children, young people and families.

PRIME 4Kids&Family is a long-term, project-based script development workshop. It consists of two modules or residential workshops, with an online consultation session in-between. The first workshop, over seven days, focuses on work with mentors. The second, over five days, focuses on follow-up with mentors, pitching and consultation on the projects with invited industry professionals, broadcasters as well as potential producers, from the fields of feature film, television and interactive media.

After the workshop, the programme follows up the results of projects that have taken part in the past, nominating one project for the PRIME 4Kids&Family Award to be presented at the Cinekid Film Festival.

Prime 4 Kids & Family focuses on the development of feature film projects for cinema and TV movies as well as live-action and drama, TV series, animation and transmedia projects that are intended for children and family audiences.

ScripTeast

Niezależna Fundacja Filmowa | Independent Film Foundation

ScripTeast is dedicated to the creative development of individual scripts in Eastern Europe with an eye to strengthening the international appeal of local productions.

This programme provides assistance in the development of the script as well as broadening the writers' knowledge of the demands of international production. The authors of 10-12 selected scripts are invited for a year-long programme consisting of three stationary sessions: stationary lab, mid-term evaluation and final session with industry presentation. In-between there are two online follow-up consultation sessions.

The programme begins with the seven-day ScripTeast Lab. This is followed by a three-day mid-term evaluation session during the Berlin International Film Festival. The course concludes with a seven-day session during the Festival de Cannes. This brings the work on scripts to an end, and focuses on promoting them and their authors in the audiovisual industry.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Seeing a script from the multiple perspectives of creative advisors; connections with the best writers and trends in world cinema at festivals and extension of contacts; international promotion of scripts and their authors.

Serial Eyes

Deutsche Film-und Fernsehakademie Berlin

With Serial Eyes, the Deutsche Film und Fernsehakademie Berlin (DFFB) has established the first European postgraduate programme for serial writing and producing, devoted exclusively to training focused on this highly specific televisual narrative form.

The programme is a 10-month full-time course, based in Berlin and taught in English. The objective is to teach young European scriptwriters, directors and producers essential know-how, means, techniques and strategies, and offer an opportunity to practice them. Serial Eyes is for participants who already have experience in working with television formats and wish to acquire and hone these specific skills. There are four phases: 1. Training session in spring at the DFFB (six weeks) and London Film School (four weeks); 2. Internship in summer (10-12 weeks); 3. Training session in autumn at the DFFB (10 weeks); 4. Final workshop in January at the DFFB (two weeks). The programme culminates with a Serial Summit with TV broadcasters.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

A solid analytical understanding of the dramaturgy and narrative strategies deployed in successful existing serial formats; the ability to develop, write and produce serial formats autonomously and as part of a team; competence in the all-round skills required thanks to Writer's Room sessions and pitching practice.

Sources 2: Projects & Process

Stichting Sources, Amsterdam (NL)

Sources 2 Projects & Process is an intensive training course, which makes the Sources 2 mentoring approach transparent to European film professionals working as mentors for filmmakers in the field of script and story development.

The programme takes place over three months, and includes:

- one three-day session: work in small groups with international colleagues, guided by experienced advisers. Keynote discussions in the evenings and additional guest lecture;
- three-month coaching period and exchange of experience in close contact with all group members;
- round-off by e-mail: each participant receives individual advice and a short evaluation from one of the advisers.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Considerable enhancement of mentoring skills; refinement and development of mentoring methods; establishment of contacts within an active European cooperation and exchange network.

Sources 2: Script Development

Stichting Sources, Amsterdam (NL)

Sources 2 Script Development Workshops offer long-term training in screenwriting and script development. The programme aims to strengthen the writer's creative and artistic skills and focuses on a self-reflected and critical understanding of film as art and film as business.

The programme takes place over three months. It starts with a seven-day residential workshop session: work in small groups with international colleagues, guided by experienced international advisers discussing each project and providing feedback, advice and suggestions. Complementary individual meetings and pitching training are included as is a supplementary programme with screenings, lectures and discussions. A three-month re-writing period follows in close contact with all group members and coached by the advisers. There is then a second session of one day per project. A follow-up session of one day per project is available upon request.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Active script development: a range of 'tools' to enhance writing skills and develop projects' greatest potential; input from international colleagues as the communicative strength of the script is tested by a committed first "test audience."

TARGET GROUP

Professional screenwriters and teams of screenwriters with their producers, directors, co-writers, researchers/journalists; professional documentary filmmakers and teams of directors with their producers, researchers, editors, cinematographers.

Writers' Room

TorinoFilmLab

(Museo Nazionale del Cinema – Fondazione Maria Adriana Prolo)

The Writers' Room focuses on the process of developing cross-platform projects within a team over the course of three workshops.

This hands-on experience will allow participants to hone their skills while being part of a team, learning how to work with other professionals on creating an interdisciplinary cross-platform project. The selected team works together under the guidance of a tutor and story editor. Focus areas are decided depending on the needs of the projects and the combined sets of experiences in the group. Writers' Room brings together team members from different fields of storytelling and with diverse backgrounds as it supports the collaborative process. The group presents the results of their work at a live pitch at the TorinoFilmLab Meeting Event.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Improved writing skills; enhanced ability to pitch and relate within the industry; better knowledge of and stronger ties with the market; ongoing support; collaboration between writers and transmedia developers.

ACE

Ateliers du Cinéma Européen (ACE)

ACE is a long-term project-based programme which aims to nurture a generation of European producers who have the skills to collaborate among countries, discover new talents together and deliver high quality films to the widest possible audience.

ACE is a 12-month programme consisting of three residential workshops on development, financing and project follow-up. Each participant brings a project at an early stage of development. These are used as various business models to improve the whole group's skills, knowledge of the international marketplace and key industry players, and introduce them to new technologies and distribution channels. Participants can benefit from follow-up consultations on their initial project for one year and can become ACE members. Since 2013 ACE has been working on two new directions:

- diversification of the producer's business model, and development of neglected segments like adaptations, remakes, genre or kids movies;
- diversification of the producer's sources of financing, with a focus on co-production.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Improved development, international co-production, business, entrepreneurial and management skills.

Digital Production Challenge (DPC)

FOCAL – Foundation for professional training
in cinema and audiovisual media

Digital Production Challenge is a residential workshop providing the methods and tools to choose and become familiar with the various digital production process chains available on the market.

Over two-and-a-half days, Digital Production Challenge offers plenary sessions with lectures and panel discussions, case study presentations on recent productions (with screenings of film excerpts), pitching and reviews of the participants' projects in plenary and group sessions. Participants learn how best to position the production of their feature or documentary films within the digital workflows, communicate with other professionals involved in the chain, understand the division of tasks and responsibilities from the director to the post-production provider, as well as the challenges of digital distribution and archiving.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Acquisition of precise, comprehensive and practical knowledge of current production and post-production workflows; a working method for following and assessing digital production and audience acquisition steps and strategies, and making informed decisions about a film project; in short, the ability to choose the most creative and economically suited solutions for a given film.

EAVE

European Producers Workshop

EAVE – European Audiovisual Entrepreneurs

The EAVE European Producers Workshop reinforces producers' creative, managerial and financial capacity to compete successfully in European and global markets.

Of the 50 participants, some 30 attend with projects (fiction or documentary or new media). Other participants are paired up with those with projects. The course takes place over 12 months through three one-week residential workshops. Each EAVE workshop combines plenary lectures, group work, case studies, one-on-one meetings, one-to-one pitching training, and screenings. Between the workshops participants work on project development and are set specific tasks. They maintain contact with each other and the pedagogical team via e-mail and the online community. The participants are divided into four groups. Each is led by an experienced producer. Experts also enter the groups to discuss and analyse the projects from specific perspectives – e.g. financial, legal, marketing.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Detailed knowledge of the European industry and the requirements of co-production; entry to a network of European producers, industry experts, decision-makers and co-production markets; high-level project development.

EKRAN

Wajda Studio

EKRAN helps talented directors take a step further in their careers, enhances creative cooperation within a team of filmmakers, and ultimately aims to increase the quality rather than quantity of new European films.

EKRAN is an opportunity to discover the traditions and practices of Eastern European cinematography while also being exposed to Western European film. In two sessions, EKRAN focuses on the pre-production creative process. The emphasis of the first session is on analytical insight into participants' projects. The core of the session is production of scenes from participants' projects with 2-3 (Polish) actors speaking English. The second session focuses on further project development and the final testing of visual strategies. Each participating team can invite a director of photography and two actors from their native country to produce a scene from the script (in their native language). Participants can return for an optional follow-up session for the final script consultancy and setting up the advanced draft before they enter the production phase.

EP2C

Post-Production Workshop

Entre Chien et Loup

EP2C is a one-week workshop for producers and post-production supervisors dedicated to post-production management of feature films (fiction or documentary). The aim is to facilitate the post-production process, especially in the case of demanding and multi-country productions.

EP2C was created in the firm belief that a well-scheduled, -budgeted and -conducted post-production stage can save a lot of work and money, and can avoid unnecessary artistic compromise. EP2C focuses on the specific requirements of the post-production stage when working on an international film co-production. Producers come with a feature film project (fiction or documentary) to be further developed with the support of experts. Post-production supervisors are assigned to producers' projects. They acquire targeted knowledge of the newest developments and issues relating to the more technical side of post-production.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

During the workshop, participants are introduced to the technical and artistic challenges in the main areas of post-production: scheduling and budgeting; image workflow and special effects; sound workflow; legal issues; marketing and deliverables issues.

Maia Workshops

Fondazione Film Commission Genova Liguria

Maia Workshops is an advanced training and coaching programme targeting emerging European producers, taking them through all the phases of development, production and distribution of a full-length fiction or documentary project.

The programme is made up of three five-day residential workshops across a year, dedicated respectively to Creative Aspects of Development, Legal & Financial Issues and Marketing & Distribution, plus networking activities for participants and graduates at the main industry events and festivals in Europe. Four-to-five among the best industry experts from around the world collaborate with each workshop, in which theory and practice are combined with group work sessions to activate the participants' own creativity, and stimulate collaboration and networking. The programme can be described as an ongoing laboratory where participants meet their peers and get together to explore new worlds for themselves and their projects.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Better understanding of creative and business practices; improved management skills; knowledge of newest market trends.

TARGET GROUP

The Maia workshops primarily target emerging European fiction, documentary and cross-media producers, junior producers and recent production graduates from film schools, particularly from Central, Eastern and Mediterranean countries.

Nipkow Programm

Nipkow Programm e.V.

The Nipkow Programm trains talented film and media professionals to enable them to develop successful European co-productions that fit the demands of the pan-European market.

This programme stimulates an exchange of experience between different professionals as if in a real film team. Online training is combined with consultation with international professionals in the participant's field followed by a residential workshop. Participants without projects are paired in advance with senior mentors and appropriate courses. The other participants' projects undergo in-depth analysis. The workshop brings all participants together to strengthen the networking effect. They learn about packaging projects and develop their ability to assess projects. They also play a part in the workshop in their professional role, giving feedback to participants with projects. They pitch projects to a team of two of sales agent, distributor, commissioning editor, executive producer, financier. All report regularly throughout the programme; on returning home, they remain part of the Nipkow network.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

High-quality training in the interconnected areas of financing, sales, distribution, production and new technologies in a pan-European context; skills enabling participants to meet the needs of their industry sector.

Production Value – The European Scheduling & Budgeting Workshop

FOCAL – Foundation for professional training in cinema and audiovisual media

The main objective of Production Value is to give participants the methods and tools to deliver professional budgets and shooting schedules as creative input for producers and directors.

Participants start working on the project three weeks before the workshop. In teams of two and coached by top-level European professionals, they are assigned real projects in development, brought by directors and producers, who have an English-language draft script for a film project with a certain level of complexity. This is preferably intended as an international co-production of two or more European countries and should have a minimum estimated budget of EUR 2.5m. Top-level European line producers and assistant directors follow the teams' work so that, given the circumstances and by the week's end, they achieve the best possible budgets and schedules. The last two days are devoted to the directors' and producers' visit. This is the time for making adjustments, presenting results and evaluating the process.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Understanding of the ramifications of creative vision and genre versus financial resources; enhanced interaction ability at co-production level; managing options linked to film commissioning and tax credits and mastering specialised software: fully developed budgets and schedules; neutral expertise; experience of sharing their vision of the film with creative "operational partners"; better understanding of co-production implications; access to a network of talented "operational partners".

Atelier Ludwigsburg-Paris

La Fémis – École Nationale Supérieure des Métiers
de l'Image et du Son | Filmakademie Baden-Württemberg

Atelier Ludwigsburg-Paris is a one-year full-time continuous training programme which contributes to enhancing the competitiveness of the European film industry by developing a new generation of European producers and distributors.

Jointly organised by La Fémis in Paris and Filmakademie of Baden-Württemberg in Ludwigsburg, the curriculum includes development, financing, production, distribution and marketing for the European film market.

The programme begins in October in Ludwigsburg. In January it shifts to Paris, and in mid-February all participants attend the Berlin Film Festival. They then move on to London for a two-week session with the NFTS (National Film and Television School), before they go back to Ludwigsburg for their March session. A four-week period of work experience with a European distribution company follows, before participants return to La Fémis for their May session. The programme also includes visits to film festivals such as Angers, Berlin and Cannes. As a final project, the 18 participants produce a series of nine short films, which are co-produced and broadcast by SWR/ARTE.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

A wide-ranging and tangible understanding of all aspects of the film business; case-study-based approach to different markets; the knowledge to foster joint projects.

Essential Legal Framework: Clearing Rights for Film and TV

Erich Pommer Institut

This workshop offers the practical knowledge to identify and clear rights fast and effectively. Teaching will combine theoretical and practical work on the case including best practices and strategies.

Scripts based on real stories, a Warhol poster in the background of a scene, and a protagonist humming a Robbie Williams song - not all third party content in a script or a film is that obvious. Only a detailed analysis can avoid cost-intensive pitfalls. Rights clearance is becoming increasingly important, both nationally and internationally.

This seminar offers unique access to the know-how and experience of specialists from companies such as HBO, NBC Universal, Red Bull, Sony and Zentropa, and international practitioners from renowned law firms.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Clearing rights for documentaries, factual entertainment and event content: Turning real life into film – the HBO example; Locations – more than just a shooting permit? Music in films and documentaries; Dealing with trademarks and art works in film and TV; Best practice lessons: Rights clearance strategies at NBC Universal, Sony, Zentropa; The role of E & O insurance; Global perspective: Case studies for different national jurisdictions.

Essential Legal Framework: Digital Strategies – Financing Marketing and Distributing 2.0

Erich Pommer Institut

An engaging and informative guide to new media, the Digital Strategies seminar sets out to equip producers (and distributors) with the basic tools to help them capitalise on the opportunities of the digital world.

With new media making filmmakers more powerful than ever, for the first time it is possible to finance, produce, distribute and own one's own content – thanks to digital technology. Internationally acclaimed experts provide relevant knowledge and cutting-edge case studies on digital distribution, crowd funding and transmedia.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Updated knowledge on the latest trends and techniques in new media; inspiration from cutting edge case studies; learning how to get the word out and build a loyal fan and customer base in a new 2.0 world; understanding the do's and don'ts of the new media industry and the legal framework essential for protecting one's interests; the latest expertise from internationally acclaimed trainers; sharing of ideas and professional feedback through unique expert speed dating.

MEDICI – The Film Funding Journey

FOCAL – Foundation for professional training
in cinema and audiovisual media

MEDICI – The Film Funding Journey is a three-year training cycle created exclusively for European public funders. Fund representatives have the opportunity to present, propose and challenge their own practices and policies.

MEDICI is divided into four workshops (two in 2012, one in 2013 and one in 2014) following the main production steps of any film fund. The workshops in 2013 and 2014 cover: application, evaluation, selection and decision processes, and distribution, reporting and new formats. MEDICI aims to improve best practice in public player funding of European films by following step-by-step the challenges confronting any film funder, addressing all the main questions and offer a variety of solutions, and to enhance potential cooperation in policies between public film funds by creating a specific training programme where players with the same mission but different backgrounds can meet and exchange ideas.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Understanding of different practices and cultural values in funding; enhancement of the global vision of the impact of film funding on national and European cultures; awareness of the challenges of new formats and technology.

Art Cinema = Action + Management

Confédération Internationale des Cinémas d'Art et Essai (CICAE)

The Art Cinema = Action + Management programme aims at developing the trainees' knowledge of the activities associated with the management of an art house cinema, while providing them with imperative managerial skills.

The programme extends the radius of art house cinema in territories where it is little developed, has disappeared, or in countries where art house cinemas are closing, by promoting the creation of national and regional associative networks, in particular in small and new EU countries. The long-term objective is to strengthen the competitiveness of art house cinema, to develop the diversity of what is offered to the public and to improve the market share of European cinema in Europe and beyond. The course consists of two sessions: Juniors and Executives, a seven or five-day course on theory and practice, themed workshop incorporating interactive training, case studies, exchange of experience and brainstorming.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Increased knowledge of the main stakes and current challenges in the art film industry; essential managerial skills; exchange of professional practices; networking.

ANIMATION

3D Character Animation for Animated Features, TV Series and Games

The Animation Workshop | VIA University College

The 3D Character Animation course is a 15-week programme taking the participants through all the components of 3D character animation, from start to finish.

Under the supervision of guest teachers who are all international and European animation professionals, the participants are introduced to the Maya software and to 3D character animation through a series of exercises designed to transfer classical 2D animation principles onto the computer and a 3D platform. There is a focus on body mechanics and physical action during the basic training and then on the advanced concepts of pantomime acting and lip sync.

Each training week consists of artistic and technical lectures, film and game analysis, numerous and intense assignments, group critiques, evaluations, one-on-one critiques, tutoring and production simulation. The course culminates in a four-week final project production which is each student's showreel masterpiece: a 20-30 second animated short film or computer game intro, during which the teacher acts as animation supervisor and director.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Further training in 3D Character Animation; augmented networks and employability.

Réalisation de film d'animation: adaptation littéraire (Animation filmmaking: book adaptation)

La Poudrière, École du Film d'Animation

This course provides training in adaptation of children's books for animation for television. The course enables participants to encounter and overcome common problems and issues, equipping them for a career in the animated film industry and enabling them to tackle professional animated film production.

The methodology used is that of the supervised project. Participants work on projects in small groups of two or three. This is an 11-week course. The first part is dedicated to TV series and the second focuses on writing a script for a TV special. The two are separated by a week during which students participate in the Annecy International Animation Film Festival and Market. This course is based on partnerships with publishers of children's books by authors of different nationalities, so participants can choose from a variety of works. At the end of the two sessions, participants pitch their TV series concept and TV special screenplay to scriptwriters, directors, producers and broadcasters, as well as the authors and editors of the works in question. Course participants also have French/English language classes and attend film viewings and theatre performances.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Facilitated entry into the audiovisual industry.

DOCUMENTARY

AniDox Lab

The Animation Workshop | VIA University College

AniDox Lab is the first ever workshop dedicated exclusively to the animated documentary genre. It offers talented documentary and animation filmmakers the opportunity to engage and combine their two worlds.

It tackles both a time-based cinematic approach as well as digital platforms that allow for multiple story and time lines. The coaching seminars and collaborative workshops progress from fine-tuning an initial idea through narrative development to a pitching session.

During four seminars and online consultation over a year and a half in Denmark, and Croatia and optional visits to the Berlinale and CPH:DOX, experts work with participants to create a solid basis for an animated documentary project.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

A synthesis through collaboration between animation and documentary filmmaking practices, a complete international production package and a professional trailer, ready to pitch at a tailored forum.

TARGET GROUP

Documentary filmmakers with interest in animation and new media; animation filmmakers with interest in documentary filmmaking; creative producers with interest in both animation and documentary filmmaking

Archidoc

La Femis – Ecole Nationale Supérieure des Métiers de l'Image et du Son

Archidoc is a European training workshop focused on the development of documentary film projects using archives.

It is a workshop of three residential sessions lasting three to eight days, which provides participants with the professional and artistic tools to bring their project to a successful conclusion, develop their professional know-how and reach the international documentary market. The first session focuses on defining and fine-tuning the main narration choices, the second on preparing the film's professional file and trailer, and the third on presenting the projects to potential professional partners (broadcasters, festivals, co-producers). Between sessions, participants dialogue with the tutors, according to a pre-established schedule.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

A solid professional project file (good trailer, synopsis, note of intent, a treatment) based on well argued conscious choices; pitching and self-presentation skills; personalised advice on professional development; experience of working in a dynamic international group; potential for contact with a producer, co-producer or broadcaster.

Documentary Campus Masterschool

Documentary Campus e.V.

The Documentary Campus Masterschool helps develop strong ideas for a factual series, one-off documentary or cross-platform project for the international market, with input from the world's top producers and buyers.

This is a Europe-wide development programme offering filmmakers an opportunity to develop a project for the global non-fiction market. The producer/director teams of the 15 projects selected are interviewed via Skype and asked to supply full treatment prior to the first of the four workshops covering various aspects of development and production (storytelling, trailer mechanics, pitching, marketing, distribution etc.) At the Leipzig Networking Days, the teams present their fully developed projects to leading commissioning editors from around the world. The fourth and last workshop with financing experts takes place after the pitching.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Understanding of multiplatform, two-screen formats, specialist factual, series and one-offs; deeper industry engagement; relationships with funds and foundations; on-going support after the pitch from dedicated financing experts.

Institute of Documentary Film (IDF)

Ex Oriente Film is a one-year international workshop dedicated to the development and funding of creative documentary films in the entire Central and Eastern European region.

At the core of the Ex Oriente Film training are three week-long residential workshops held over the year. Each year up to 14 projects are selected to receive assistance from a wide range of film experts, with each workshop focusing on a different segment of development. Participants are given tailored guidance in developing the subject, narrative and visual style of their projects, finalising the trailers, making drafts of a financing and distribution strategy, and are provided with the mentoring and contacts necessary to break through to the international market. The course culminates in the pitching sessions of projects at the East European Forum coproduction meeting, featuring the final presentation in front of Europe's and North America's leading commissioning editors, distributors, buyers and film fund representatives. A follow-up programme tracks projects to their completion, providing former participants with consultation and scholarships for international festivals and markets, helping to multiply their professional contacts, as well as to finalise the narrative and editing structure of their rough cuts at Ex Oriente Film EditLab.

IDFAcademy

International Documentary Film Festival Amsterdam (IDFA)

IDFAcademy is IDFA's training programme, taking place during the IDFA festival. It offers a group of approximately 80 documentary filmmakers and producers the opportunity to gain up-to-date knowledge of the international documentary industry (financing, production, distribution).

This four-day programme concentrates on a theme from one of the subjects of the plenary sessions. It includes master classes, case studies, lectures, panels, small-scale workshops and round table sessions with international professionals, as well as plenary sessions. It takes place during the festival and Docs for Sale, the sales market for documentaries, and prior to the FORUM. Participants get maximum exposure to the guests in attendance, events and networking opportunities. There is also close collaboration with IDFA's Programming Department and Industry Office, so that IDFAcademy can follow trends and developments, and fit them into the preparation and choice of subject matter and guests. Participants wanting advice about their project can arrange a one-on-one meeting with a professional.

i-doc Workshop:

A Project Development Programme for Expanded Documentaries

Laboratory of Visual Culture (University of Applied Sciences and Arts of Southern Switzerland - SUPSI)

The second edition of this five-day residential workshop will introduce participants to non-fiction digital storytelling and accompany them in the development of a first interactive documentary working concept.

The workshop is held during Visions du Réel and is organised in collaboration with the Festival's Doc Outlook International Market. It is project-oriented: participants apply the skills and methods, and the familiarity with the new challenges and opportunities of digital storytelling acquired through lectures, case studies and panels with established professionals and media pioneers to the practical development of a working concept for an interactive documentary. They discuss their concerns with experts, trainers and international decision makers, thus optimising content development for a broader digital media ecosystem, planning the audience experience, interaction design, funding strategy and professional networking. In a Development Lab, participants define and refine a first working concept for further development or pre-production.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Methods and skills to create, select and present content for an interactive documentary project; knowledge of various means of interacting for audience engagement; ability to choose the appropriate technical and interface solution and find the right partner; access to a professional network; strengthened capacity to operate internationally.

ZagrebDox Pro facilitates information exchange, upgrades skills and fosters professional self-confidence in European documentary directors and producers via a highly developed professional network by creating and developing networking opportunities, author meetings, co-productions, pre-buys and distribution agreements.

ZagrebDox Pro is a six-day training programme which takes place during ZagrebDox International Documentary Film Festival. ZagrebDox Pro participants therefore benefit from being able to see a wide range of films and join in festival networking activities.

The training programme consists of three modules: The Reality Check Workshop (workshop + Pitching Forum and one-on-one meetings); A Dox Proposal Crash Course (workshop); Phone Dox (film competition + case studies). ZagrebDox Pro is especially interested in facilitating development, supporting and marketing documentary projects from the Balkans and the surrounding countries, and projects with a theme from this region and/or looking for co-producers from the region.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Participants learn to analyse different stages of their projects; improve the writing of a proper documentary project including treatment, script, statement, etc.; prepare a budget and draw up a financial plan to European standards; compose an appealing trailer and pitch a project; understand the European documentary market in terms of approaching different partners/buyers/co-producers; target an audience.

NEW MEDIA

Multi Platform Business School (MPBS)

Media Business School (Fundación Cultural Media)

MPBS is designed to enable participants to develop their skills in creating cross-media strategies and building sustainable business models for projects with transmedia potential.

MPBS is a project-based, tutorial and consultation driven course, offering European content producers and creatives ways of maximising their projects' intellectual property value by developing cross media financing, production, marketing and international distribution strategies, with an emphasis on how to appeal to and engage audiences, and maximise the projects' commercial value. The MPBS is delivered in three stages – residential training, online consultation and investor forum – over a period of seven months. The ultimate objective of the initiative is for participants to prepare a market/investor-ready cross-media proposition.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

The skills and know-how to enable content producers and creators to identify cross-media potential and maximise IP value; extension of cross-sector professional networks and potential for collaboration.

EFA Master Class

European Film Academy (EFA)

EFA Master Classes are continuous training courses led by internationally successful filmmakers who dedicate one week to intensive training of young talent from all over Europe. The courses concentrate on the practical side of learning with at least half of the time spent on hands-on training.

How do I achieve maximum quality with a low budget? The EFA Master Class LOW BUDGET – HIGH LEVEL is a six-day programme offering a mixture of group sessions, screenings, case studies and lectures, with a focus on hands-on exercises. Participants will learn how to handle and creatively use CGI (Computer-Generated Imagery) by working with the most advanced and up-to-date hard- and software (e.g. Autodesk Maya, Autodesk 3ds Max, NewTek LightWave, Maxxon Cinema 4D). The multi-disciplinary workshop consists of three modules: Case Studies/Presentation – three luminaries in the visual and special effects field are special guests; Hands-on – practical work at CGI workstations; Evaluation – including the presentation/screening of the results followed by a group discussion. Invited experts from different fields will join the workshop.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

How to use modern technology in an effective and creative way in realistic working conditions with the aim of lowering the costs.

Screen4All Augmented TV

Avance Rapide

The multiplicity of screens is growing at an ever-accelerating pace, and so content must be adapted and enhanced for all these new types of display. So far, however, producers have not really taken this dimension into account, and many perceive these new media as just another channel, with no differentiating added value.

This training programme provides participants with the technological, methodological and economic knowledge necessary to master the production and distribution of content for new screens. It combines conferences and workshops, allowing trainees to put into practice the theoretical concepts that are presented at the beginning of each day in order to produce content for new screens (connected TV, tablets etc.). Every day, the course is opened to special guests from the industry through casual networking opportunities, boot camp-type exchanges, trade show tours, etc. During the training course, the trainees' projects are reviewed for feasibility, technology and concept.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Knowledge which allows participants to go further in terms of creativity and master better the technological specifications to produce content for new screens and consider the variety of screens on which a production can be displayed.

TransISTor 2014

CIANT – International Centre for Arts and New Technology in Prague

TransISTor is a multidisciplinary training initiative offering European professionals in the audiovisual sector a series of intensive trans-disciplinary workshop sessions focused on advanced new technologies employed in the production of feature films, documentaries and experimental media creations.

The programme consists of two stand-alone training sessions: 1. S3D Documentary storytelling and filmmaking; 2. S3D Fiction storytelling and filmmaking. These courses provide comprehensive S-3D training from a trans-disciplinary perspective while combining technical hands-on sessions with concept-based methodological introductions. They open up broader possibilities for documentary filmmaking by introducing the creators to methods for synthetic films. They make S3D techniques available to a broader spectrum of filmmakers, including authors of documentaries and of experimental cross- and trans-media productions. They broaden and enrich the portfolio of marketing techniques used in promotion and distribution of new audiovisual creations to fit various contemporary media usages.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Increased competence and competitiveness; a better understanding of the changing needs of the European audiovisual market and industry.

VFX – Script to Screen

Bord Scannán na hÉireann/the Irish Film Board

VFX – Script to Screen aims to inspire the creative film community in Europe to understand wholly and push the boundaries of VFX, and develop new and innovative stories for audiences in Europe and globally.

The programme has three main elements: concept development and visualisation, the production process and the post-production process. VFX – Script to Screen aims to provide participants with an overview of the current VFX landscape, and enable them successfully to manage a VFX project including 3D, throughout all its stages. The programme aims to explore further the development stage of VFX, detailing the scripting, planning, visual structure and storyboarding of a project using VFX through case studies, lectures and course work. There are three modules 5+3+5 days, all residential. The second involves significant immersion in a studio-based live shoot with crew, VFX supervisor and stereographer. All include plenaries, one-to-ones, mentorship and group work elements. VFX – Script to Screen aims to create a pool of flexible professionals, highly versed in VFX technology, terminology and fully familiar with the development and production processes.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Skills and expertise to plan and project-manage a VFX project successfully, and understand the interaction between VFX, games and 3D; familiarity with the content and platforms now available to the industry, and identification of how best to plan for and exploit this content.
